

TIME

Microphones

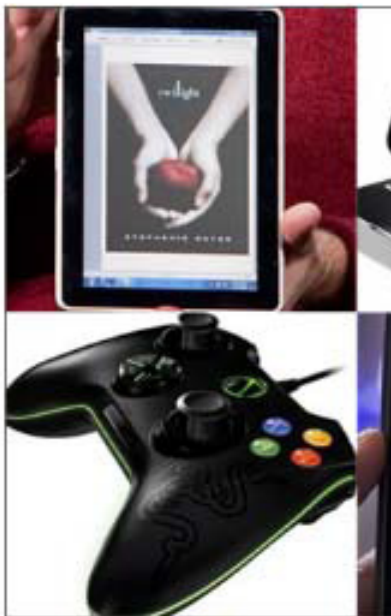

January 8, 2010

Circ: 8,500,000

GADGETS

The Best of CES 2010

By Peter Ha on January 8, 2010

15. Blue Microphones Mikey

Return to intro

If you've ever tried recording live music with your iPhone then I'm sure you can see the value in Blue Mics Mikey adapter. The Mikey comes with an improved acoustic circuit allowing you to record high-volume situations like a concert without all the loud buzzing and hissing. It also features three gain settings for all scenarios be it concerts, interviews or lectures. A USB pass through has also been implemented, as well as a line-input and 230-degree swiveling design. Mikey works in conjunction with the free Blue FiRe recording app. Who doesn't want stereo quality recording on their iPhone?